ABROAD.

The European maritime nations, and especially England, are growing tired of the century kind of warfare France is waging against China, and are very anxious that affairs should be brought to a climax. An effort at mediation will probably soon be made.

On the 17th there was a slight skirmish near the Kimpul forts, below Foo Chow. Only 200 French troops landed, and defeated a few villagers. The object of landing was to keep open communications between the French fleet and the Eastern Telegraph Company's ship.

On the 18th the French man-of-war Atalante landed a regular Hong Kong contingent of 200 men and 150 horses, and on the 19th the French man-of-war Atalante landed a regular Hong Kong contingent of 200 men and 150 horses, and on the 19th the French man-of-war Atalante landed a regular Hong Kong contingent of 200 men and 150 horses.

The cholera epidemic in Naples is gradually abating. Great quantities of cholera victims are being buried in the streets with a view of purifying the atmosphere. During the 24 hours ending on the morning of the 18th there were 307 new cases in the city and 253 deaths, and during the same period of time, ending on the morning of the 19th, there were 437 new cases and 283 deaths from cholera in Naples and 50 new cases and 24 deaths in the provinces. Elsewhere in Italy the epidemic is gradually abating.

There is still much alarm among the people. The police in Naples disperse the religious processions in the city, which the lower classes so devoutly believe, but the shrines are still placed in various parts of the town, and are frequented by throngs of supplicants. Outbreaks of violence on the part of the ignorant rabble still occur. At Giffoni a mob opened the lazaretto, liberated the people who were there for treatment, and threw the beds into the streets. At Pesiano, a village of Calabria, the population was greatly excited. The notion was abroad with them that the cholera remedies which were being dispensed to the sick were poison. In some instances when the dispensers were asked to approach their houses they were fired at from the windows. A small body of Carabinieri, in attempting to preserve order, were received with a volley of stones and shots, and were obliged to use their firearms in self-defense. There has been a slight renewal of the epidemic at Toulon, and several deaths have occurred in that city and surrounding country.

A number of deaths have been reported in the Eastern Pyrenees. Marseilles, according to the latest reports, is free from the plague. At Malta a very strict quarantine is established. All passengers arriving on vessels from England are prohibited from landing there, unless they can produce certificates that they have not been in continental cholera-infected districts during the 21 days previous to their embarkation. All arrivals of vessels from French and Spanish Atlantic ports are quarantined for 21 days. All vessels arriving from the Suez Canal are allowed to enter free provided they have not shipped any cargo of Egyptian ports. One death is reported at Alexandria, and great precautions are being taken to prevent a spread of the disease. The prison at Tangier is crowded with political prisoners, who are charged with the responsibility of the Sultan. The prison is in a deplorable condition, and an outbreak of cholera is feared. A death is also said to have occurred at Stourbridge in England, but it is by no means certain that it was caused by cholera.

The epidemic in France has been continuing for the last 100 days, and has been causing great suffering. Gov. Pattison, in presenting the pedestal, said, among other things: "The State of Pennsylvania is proud to present to you, in a moment of supreme peril, this pedestal, which she has erected to the memory of a great Christian people, under a great Governor, maintained by strife, here to render homage to a great soldier who died that liberty might live; he was received with hearty cheers."

REUNION OF VETERANS.

Survivors of the Army of the Cumberland at Rochester.

The 16th annual Reunion of the Army of the Cumberland was held at Rochester, N. Y., on the 17th and 18th inst. Large numbers of members were in attendance from all over the country. The hotels were all crowded. Many distinguished members were present. Among them were Gen. Philip H. Sheridan, John A. Logan, Henry M. Cist, J. J. Morgan, W. M. Kilgore, H. A. Barnum, J. G. Parkhurst, Daniel Burdick, Joseph H. Carr, S. R. Anderson, Stewart, L. Woodford, Horace Porter, James Barnett, R. I. Mussey, Horace Boughton, and many others of lower rank. Ex-Speaker Keifer was also in attendance. Gen. Rosencrans telegraphed that he was sending a physician's charge and could not attend.

On the morning of the first day's meeting the delegates marched to the City Hall in a body, headed by the Rochester band, and were called to order by Gen. Sheridan, who made a short address of welcome to the visitors. After which the reports of the officers of the society were received, which showed the organization to be in a healthy condition. The Treasurer's report shows the receipt of $2,600.84 and the expenditure of $1,432.78, leaving a balance in the treasury of $1,168.06.

In the afternoon the survivors visited the principal points of interest in the city. In the evening a reception was held by Gen. Sherman and Logan at the Mayor's office, and following this occurred the literary exercises in the City Hall. The exercises consisted of an address, welcome by Maj. D. B. Brown, of Rochester, a member of the society, to which Gen. Sheridan responded. Benjamin F. Taylor read a poem entitled "Chickamauga," and the creation of the Reunion was delivered by Capt. W. H. Lambert, of Philadelphia, on Gen. George H. Thomas, in the course of which he said:

Major Thomas was a Southern man; of his 20 years of service he had spent his first 10 years in the Southern States, or on their border. His army association was principally with Southern men; his military life was spent in the ranks of the Confederate army, and he held high ranks in the armies of the rebellion; a junior captain of artillery, with 49 numbers behind him, and the next grade he had been appointed major of cavalry at the suggestion of Braxton Bragg, with the approval of Samuel Cooper and the recommendation of General Johnston. Doubtless, high command would have been given of his rank and proven ability if he gave his sword to his State.

On the one hand were ambition, sympathy, and family honor. On the other hand, the obligation of a soldier. What anguish he endured in this crisis we cannot know. But for George H. Thomas, the country would have been lost. He could have but one issue; he must break his pledged faith; he must be true to his flag. "I have thought it all over and I shall stand in the service of the Government."

His decision was made, never to be recalled, and he therefore had been faithful to his honor and his allegiance to the Nation. He stipulated no price, he sought no reward, he prescribed no conditions, he asked no concession. He was a genuine and wholehearted and throughout the war, whether on the march or in the camp, he was the same. The country had no more devoted, no soldier more patriotic than this Virginian.

The session of the next day was occupied principally in the election of officers, which resulted as follows: Pres., Lieut. Gen. Philip Sheridan; Sec. Gen., Lieut. Gen. Henry M. Cist; Treas., J. S. Fullerton; Editor, Lieut. Gen. W. M. Steele; V.-Ps., Col. E. E. Smith, Alabama; Lieut. C. B. Eldridge, Arkansas; Capt. S. A. Higgins, California; Gen. John P. Miller, Connecticut; Maj. Frank S. Brown, Colorado; Col. G. G. Symonds, District of Columbia; Gen. R. M. Mussey, Dakota; Capt. Louis Zahn, Florida; Col. J. C. Reed, Georgia; Lieut. F. M. Vampelt, Idaho; Col. W. P. Chandler, Illinois; Lieut. Gen. John A. Logan, Indiana; Lieut. Gen. John A. Logan, Iowa; Lieut. Gen. John A. Logan, Kansas; Lieut. Gen. John A. Logan, Kentucky; Lieut. Gen. John A.
